WILL LOSE BOTH EYES.

Two Men Committed Without Bail for Maiming John Marr, a Laborer.

Michael Foley, aged 40, of South Boston, and James Gerry, aged 45, of Lawrence, Mass., were committed to jail this morning to await a further hearing on one of the most serious accusations that have come up in court for some time. They are jointly charged with maiming John Marr, of Lawrence, in a fight on Deer street, last Saturday evening. Foley was pounded with a rock, he alleges, so badly that he has lost the sight of both eyes and will be hopelessly blind for the remainder of his life. Foley and Gerry were committed without bail.

All three men are laborers on the work of putting in the foundation for the new dry dock at the navy yard.
They boarded at Mrs. Dumphy's on Deer street. Last Saturday, on account of the rain, there was no work and from the police accounts, about all hands at the Deer street headquarters were drunk and fighting.

The fight in which Marr was so terribly injured, took place on the sidewalk. One of his eyes was nearly knocked out of its socket. He was a pitiful looking object in court. Drs.
F. S. Towle and W. O. Jenkins were in court and testified that it was very improbable if Marr was ever able to see again.

The case was continued until next Monday at ten o'clock, and in the meantime, Marr will be given the best of treatment to restore his sight, if possible. The penalty for mayhem, under which this kind of maiming is classed, is twenty years in state prison.

After the regular session was closed Judge Adams held a session on the Woods assault case, which has been continued from time to time. Woods was found guilty of the assault on Joseph Sweeney and was fined $3 and costs of $9.13. He appealed through his counsel, John W. Kelley, and furnished sureties to prosecute the appeal.
The court was of the opinion that Woods, in kicking Sweeney, used uncalled for force in putting him out of the store. This makes two cases that Woods will have to answer to in the supreme court.

CITY BRIEFS.

It looks like a spell of weather.

Don't forget that the Portsmouth street railway has a new time-table.

The wind at northwest did not change the spell of weather we are getting.

The football teams have been unable to get in any practice on account of the wet grounds.

Work on the dry dock site has been practically suspended, owing to the soaking rains.

The population of the entire state of New Hampshire is 150,000 less than the city of Boston.

The Boston & Maine is using about 700 tons of coke per day on the various departments of the road.

There were no arrivals in port today and not one of the big fleet that is in the harbor left anchorage.

The grass has been freshened up by the rain and that is the only thing that feels fresh, after the past week of wet.

The harbor is full of coasters. Every thing in port will remain until the conditions are more favorable for sailing.

The police have a case under consideration that will be given to the public shortly and it will be interesting reading.

A notice of the water board, printed in another column, is of interest to water users and the matter should not be forgotten.

There was a rainbow in the western heavens at half-past six o'clock this morning. A soaking shower followed the rainbow.

Elder Joseph Miett of Concord will preach at the Advent Christian church this evening. Service at 7.15 o'clock.
All are invited.

According to several prophets, the cold weather will begin on Nov. 8, but an exchange thinks Mr. Bryan should be prepared for it a few days earlier.

The Alabama state papers, with many happy references to the recent celebration, are being received in the city and the comments are most interesting and gratifying.

Mr. H. K. Sheldon has opened a shop at 5 1-2 Langdon street and is prepared to do upholstering and packing, also cane-sealing chairs. He has been in the business twenty years and can guarantee to do first-class work at low prices.

The bird hunting of the state is worth more than a passing thought. Many a hunter cares more for bagging a few birds than he would to secure a deer.
If we can keep the grouse hunting good it will pay a good dividend on what is expended.

The store keepers will feel like going out of business, if this weather continues much longer. They are having a dull and uninteresting time, with no one on the streets on account of the constant downpour of rain and the nasty condition of our sidewalks.

The man who cannot take the time to ride out in the country for the sake of seeing nature in full dress at this time of the year is losing a joy from his life.
The woods are resplendent, and the hills are gorgeous, glorious. Go and see them and be convinced, that man is a hopeless failure when he tries his hand at decorating.

Reports from the woods would seem to indicate that deer are not as plentiful as usual this year, though the season is not far enough along to form an accurate estimate. The uplands are very dry, so that no one can pass along the woods without making a noise. As the leaves still cling to the deciduous trees the deer cannot be seen in the woods, and most of the animals which are slain are met by accident. Wait a few weeks and strike another average.

This is a year of invention in all branches of trade, but this is more apparent in the shoe industry than in any other. Not for years has this trade received such a decided advance in the way of invention. Manufacturers are almost daily adding to their stock of machinery, and during the past year the list of employees of many shops has been materially decreased for this reason.
